About

The combination of shapes and materials gives the whole a sense of brightness and sobriety.

Meuse side, the facade, largely glazed, follows the movement of the river while Avenue side, alternating solids and voids highlights the breakdown of volumes.

The entrance is accessible via a wide esplanade, is dominated by a largely glazed volume. The pinion, meanwhile, is as an inclined stem on which the occupier will signal clearly its logo.

The plaster and the stone foundations we refer to the Austrian architectural heritage present in the town center while the metal lighters participate in the dynamics of the primary entrance to Namur.

The green roof crown lightly all. Slightly tilted, it presents eaves to avoid overheating due to sunshine.
