
ROTOR DECONSTRUCTION: OPENING OF AN OFFICE IN PARIS

Rotor Deconstruction is opening a second office in Paris, to further develop their activities in France. This project launched by Rotor consists of the dismantling and selling of reusable materials from quality building undergoing transformation or demolition. Besides consulting to architects who want to increase the use of reclaimed materials in their designs, Rotor will also be working with real estate developers in the area to organise large salvage operations in to be demolished or to be renovated buildings.
