Description

Accommodate human activity, that is our mission. This mission is both simple and complex, includes a series of reflective layers, such layers superimposed on the original plan. Design shelters to protect man, the cover, to enable it to position itself, to live, to build its history, ... Designing spaces that generate emotion, and through a series of choices, suggest modes inside directing the dialogue between man and the external environment, ... Design durable shelters, efficient, airtight, water, hacking, ... shelters that are the scene of our business and our daily intimacy which we articulate the context, we connect to the world ... The shelter, in addition to its departure, must try to surprise, to awaken, enrich the activity that takes place. It is within the margin of a copy already busy, we can add additional components to be generous in going beyond the program to try to turn away in a surprising setting of life.
